Obesity is known to increase the risk for the development and progression of atherosclerosis, with hypertension being an important risk factor. The aim of the present study is to clarify the effects of obesity and hyperlipidemia on the urine albumin-to-creatinine ratio (uACR) in patients with hypertension. A total of 237 hypertensive patients were investigated. Obesity was diagnosed when their body mass index exceeded 30 kg/m², hyperlipidemia was defined by a serum total cholesterol level of ≥ 240 mg/dL or use of lipid-lowering agents, and albuminuria was defined
